

Christian Scott is a middle school Social Studies teacher in Boston Public Schools. Christian received his BA in English and MEd from the University of Massachusetts Boston. In the classroom Mr. Scott puts an emphasis on student engagement and expression by incorporating arts and technology into his curriculum. He promotes civic engagement and somehow manages to squeeze in over a dozen field trips each year. A lifelong learner, Christian can often be found strolling around museums, attending place-based professional developments or listening to really nerdy podcasts. Long ago Christian graduated culinary school and worked in French restaurants, and he can still whip up a fancy family dinner.
